This should be overall rating as some products should have sub segments to rate by.

Include an option to upload photos of the actual product persons received or wearing the product etc. There should options that customers can rate by eg quality, true to size etc. Also when customers purchase an item they should automatically receive an email to rate the item and these items would have a verified purchase rating on it.

Would additionally like persons to be able to rate on the service they received when they shop, this too would be sent via email, but would not show up here, however we can use it for our customer service rating. These ratings will include: Receiving products on time Customer service by delivery person Packaging of the product etc

SERVICES

Services page would essentially look like shop page and individual items, however instead of quantity available, there would be scheduling option. For shopping for services at checkout, persons should be prompted to put information about what they would like to receive in their service. for example make up artist, persons should be able to upload photo of a look they would like created so that vendor can prep. ONLY for services would they receive vendor information eg address and contact, ONLY after completing the booking. Certain services bookings should be able to drill down by year, month and date eg wedding photographers where persons would want to book in advance. This means that instead of inputs being size and colour etc, it would be year, month, date etc.

For services vendors would:

Put service type

Open a ministore/blog about themselves, photos should include their portfolio eg for make up artist and photographers, and services offered example spa. Vendors are encouraged to create the best portfolio they can. Reviews for services will be a bit different and will take into consideration, professionalism, being on time, quality of the service achieved etc. Reviews will be especially important for services.

Make scheduling system to sell the service:

- Should include appointments, classes/courses etc
- Staff/team
- Availability.

Each type of service will be a like a new product that the vendor offers
